

Kevin T. Barksdale – Marshall University

Kevin T. Barksdale is an Assistant Professor of American History and is a specialist in Appalachian and West Virginia history. He has extensive teaching experience in Appalachian history and culture, Native American Studies, and Coalfield/Working Class history. His research interests include the 18th century Appalachian backcountry, southeastern Amerindian history, and the trans-Appalachian borderlands. He is the author of The Lost State of Franklin: America's First Secession.

Stephen W. Berry II - University of Georgia

Stephen W. Berry II is Associate Professor of History where his teaching and writing focus on the Civil War as a lived experience. He is interested in how men, women, and families reacted to, were shaped by, and endured after the conflict that transformed their lives. A former National Endowment for the Humanities fellow, Berry is author of House of Abraham: Lincoln and the Todds, A Family Divided by War and All That Makes a Man: Love and Ambition in the Civil War South.

Peter S. Carmichael - West Virginia University

Peter S. Carmichael, Eberly Professor of Civil War Studies has published a number of books, most recently a study of Southern college students during the Civil War era entitled The Last Generation: Young Virginians in Peace, War, and Reunion. He also authored Lee's Young Artillerist: William R. J. Pegram and edited Audacity Personified: The Generalship of Robert E. Lee. He is currently researching the experience and wartime representation of Confederate slaves, and how the popular idea of loyal African American defending the South animates current cultural wars over "Southern heritage."

Thomas W. Cutrer - Arizona State University

Thomas W. Cutrer received his B.A. in history and M.A. in English at Louisiana State University and the Ph.D. in American civilization at the University of Texas. He is Professor of History and American Studies, and is a specialist in American military history and the cultural history of the American South. His publications include Ben McCulloch and the Frontier Military Tradition; Longstreet's Aide: The Civil War Letters of Maj. Thomas J. Goree; Oh, What a Loansome Time I Had: The Civil War Letters of Major William Moxley and Emily Moxley; "Our Trust is in the God of Battles": The Civil War Letters of Robert F. Bunting, Chaplain, Eighth Texas Cavalry; and, with T. Michael Parrish, Brothers in Gray: The Civil War Letters of the Pierson Family. His edition of the Mexican War papers of George B. McClellan is forthcoming from the Louisiana State University Press.

William C. Davis - Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

William C. Davis is Professor of History and Director of Programs for the Virginia Center for Civil War Studies. Davis spent 20 years in editorial management in the magazine and book publishing industry, then left the industry in 1990 to spend the next decade working as a writer and consultant. Davis is the only three-time winner of the Jefferson Davis Award given for booklength works on Confederate history, including Look Away! A History of the Confederate States of America. His most recent book is The Pirates Laffite: The Treacherous World of the Corsairs of the Gulf.

William W. Freehling – Virginia Foundation for the Humanities

William W. Freehling is Singletary Professor of the Humanities Emeritus at the University of Kentucky and Senior Fellow at the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities. He is the author of Prelude to Civil War, which won a Bancroft Prize, The Road to Disunion, Volume I: Secessionists at Bay, 1776-1854, The Road to Disunion, Volume II: Secessionists Triumphant, 1854-1861 and The South vs. the South: How Anti-Confederate Southerners Shaped the Course of the Civil War.

Gary W. Gallagher - University of Virginia

Gary W. Gallagher is the John L. Nau III Professor in the History of the American Civil War. He graduated from Adams State College of Colorado and earned his M.A. and Ph.D. in history from The University of Texas at Austin. Prior to teaching at UVA, he was Professor of History at Pennsylvania State University. His books include The Confederate War, Lee and His Generals in War and Memory, and Stephen Dodson Ramseur: Lee's Gallant General. He has co-authored and edited several works on individual battles and campaigns and has published over 100 articles in scholarly journals and popular historical magazines. Gallagher has received many awards, including the Laney Prize for the best book on the Civil War, the William Woods Hassler Award for contributions to Civil War studies, the Lincoln Prize, and the Fletcher Pratt Award for the best nonfiction book on the Civil War. Gallagher was founder and first president of the Association for the Preservation of Civil War Sites and serves on the National Advisory Board of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

Lesley Jill Gordon – University of Akron

Lesley Jill Gordon is Professor of History and teaches courses in the Civil War and Reconstruction, U.S. military history, and the Early Republic. Gordon is author of General George E. Pickett in Life and Legend; coeditor of Intimate Strategies of the Civil War: Military Commanders and their Wives, and Inside the Confederate Nation: Essays in Honor of Emory M. Thomas; and coauthor of This Terrible War: The Civil War and its Aftermath. She is currently completing a study of the Civil War's lasting effects on a northern regiment.

A. Wilson Greene – Petersburg, Virginia

A. Wilson Greene is the Executive Director of Pamplin Historical Park and the National Museum of the Civil War Soldier located near Petersburg, Virginia. The museum is dedicated to the common soldier, north and south, and features galleries that trace a soldier's experience during the war. Greene served as the first president of the Association for the Preservation of Civil War Sites from 1990 to 1994. Prior to this, he worked as a National Park Service historian at a variety of locations, including Fredericksburg National Military Park and Petersburg National Battlefield. The author of more than 20 published works on the Civil War, Greene's most recent books included, Whatever You Resolve To Be: Essays on Stonewall Jackson and Petersburg, VA: 1861-1865: Confederate City in the Crucible of War. Greene continues to serve on the presidential appointed board of the Institute of Museum and Library Services, which oversees best practices and grants of museums and libraries throughout the country. Greene is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

Clark B. Hall – Fairfax, Virginia

Clark B. Hall is a widely published author and authority on cavalry operations in the Civil War. He is one of the founders of the Association for the Preservation of Civil War Sites which was merged into a similar organization, the Civil War Trust, to form the Civil War Preservation Trust. Clark is a leading preservationist and frequently leads battlefield tours throughout Virginia.

Earl J. Hess – Lincoln Memorial University

Earl J. Hess is Associate Professor of History, director of the History Program, and holds the Stewart McClelland Chair. He completed his B.A. and M.A. degrees in History at Southeast Missouri State University. His Ph.D. in American Studies, with a concentration in History, was awarded by Purdue University. He has taught at a number of institutions, including the University of Georgia, Texas Tech University, and the University of Arkansas. Among Hess's many books on Civil War history is: The Rifle Musket in Civil War Combat: Reality and Myth; Pickett's Charge – The Last Attack at Gettysburg; and, Trench Warfare under Grant and Lee: Field Fortifications in the Overland Campaign. He also published nineteen journal articles, and more than ninety book reviews for academic history journals, and conducted numerous manuscript evaluations for academic presses.

Caroline E. Janney - Purdue University

Caroline E. Janney is Assistant Professor of History and teaches courses on the Civil War, Civil War memory, and women's history. Her first book, Burying the Dead but Not the Past: Ladies' Memorial Associations and the Lost Cause, explores the role of white southern women as the creators and purveyors of Confederate tradition in the immediate post-Civil War South. Her second book will examine how the Civil War was remembered between 1865 and the 1930s. She is particularly interested in how race, gender, and combat experience shaped the ways in which Americans thought about the war and its legacy.

Robert E. L. Krick – Richmond, Virginia

Robert E. L. Krick is a Richmond-based historian who specializes in the Army of Northern Virginia. He is the author of The Fortieth Virginia Infantry and his most recent book is Staff Officers in Gray: A Biographical Register of the Staff Officers in the Army of Northern Virginia. He is working on a book about the Battle of Gaines' Mill, the first battlefield collaboration between Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Krick received his B.A. from the University of Mary Washington in Fredericksburg and is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

Susanna Michele Lee – North Carolina State University

Susanna Michele Lee is an Assistant Professor of History and she teaches classes on Civil War and Reconstruction and southern history. She is currently working on two book manuscripts: one on citizenship in the post-Civil War South and one on civilians in central Virginia during the Civil War. She received her Ph.D. in history from the University of Virginia.

William A. Link - University of Florida

William A. Link occupies the Richard J. Milbauer chair in history, currently teaching courses in southern history and supervising or co-supervising seven doctoral students. He graduated from Davidson College and received a Ph.D. in history from the University of Virginia. He taught at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (UNCG) for 23 years. He served as Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and as head of the UNCG History Department. Link's publications include five books about various topics in the history of the 19th and 20th century South including Roots of Secession: Slavery and Politics in Antebellum Virginia (2003) and, most recently, North Carolina: Change and Tradition in a Southern State (2009).

Thomas A. McGrath – North Country College

Thomas A. McGrath received his BA in History from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, his MA in Civil War Studies from American Military University, and is currently working toward the History PhD at the University at Albany. McGrath teaches History and English at North Country College in Ticonderoga, NY. He served for five years as historian / interpreter at nearby Fort Ticonderoga and is a member of the Ticonderoga Historical Society Board of Trustees. McGrath is the author of Shepherdstown: Last Clash of the Antietam Campaign, September 19-20, 1862, the only full-length account of the Battle of Shepherdstown. He has also written Maryland September: True Stories from the Antietam Campaign, as well as numerous articles for a variety of publications including Blue & Gray, Yankee Magazine, and Adirondack Life.

James M. McPherson - Princeton University

James M. McPherson is the George Henry Davis '86 Professor Emeritus of United States History at Princeton University. He received the Pulitzer Prize for Battle Cry of Freedom, his most famous book. He was the president of the American Historical Association in 2003, and is a member of the editorial board of Encyclopædia Britannica. He received his Bachelor of Arts at Gustavus Adolphus College (St. Peter, Minnesota), graduating magna cum laude, and his Ph.D. at Johns Hopkins University. McPherson's works include The Struggle for Equality, awarded the Anisfield-Wolf Award. In 1989, he published his Pulitzer-winning book, Battle Cry of Freedom. In 1998 his book, For Cause and Comrades, received the Lincoln Prize. In 2002, he published both a scholarly book, Crossroads of Freedom: Antietam 1862, and a history of the Civil War for children, Fields of Fury. McPherson was named the 2000 Jefferson Lecturer in the Humanities by the National Endowment for the Humanities. In 2007, he was awarded the $100,000 Pritzker Military Library Literature Award for lifetime achievement in military history--the first person to be awarded the prize. In 2009, McPherson won his second Lincoln prize for Tried By War: Abraham Lincoln As Commander In Chief. One of his most recent books is This Mighty Scourge, a series of essays about the Civil War. McPherson is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

Frank A. O'Reilly – Fredericksburg, Virginia

Frank A. O'Reilly is an historian at the "Stonewall" Jackson Shrine and has served as an historical consultant for the City of Fredericksburg and the Shenandoah Valley Battlefield Planning Commission. His latest book, The Fredericksburg Campaign: Winter War on the Rappahannock received the Capital District (Albany, NY) 2002 Book Award, the 2003 James I. Robertson, Jr. Book Award, the 2004 Daniel Laney Book Award and the 2004 Richard Barksdale Harwell Book Award. Mr. O'Reilly is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and the author of numerous articles on the war in Virginia. His current research is on the Battle of Malvern Hill.

George C. Rable – University of Alabama

George C. Rable is Charles Summersell Professor of Southern History. His most recent book is Fredericksburg! Fredericksburg!, winner of the prestigious Lincoln Prize, the Jefferson Davis Award, and the Douglas Southall Freeman Award. Among his other books are The Confederate Republic: A Revolution Against Politics and Civil Wars: Women and the Crisis of Southern Nationalism. His current research focuses on the role of religion in the Civil War.

Gordon C. Rhea – Charleston, South Carolina

Gordon C. Rhea received a M.A. in history from Harvard University and his juris doctorate from Stanford University Law School. He is the author of: Cold Harbor: Grant and Lee, May 26-June 3, 1864; Glory Enough For All: Sheridan's Second Raid and the Battle of Trevellian Station (with Eric Wittenberg); To the North Anna River: Grant and Lee, May 13-25, 1864; The Battles for Spotsylvania Court House And The Road to Yellow Tavern, May 7-12, 1864; and, The Battle of the Wilderness, May 5-6, 1864. Rhea is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

Susannah J. Ural – University of Southern Mississippi

Susannah J. Ural teaches courses on the U.S. Civil War era, nineteenth-century America, U.S. military history, and Irish-American and U.S. immigration history. She received a BA in history and political science from the University of Vermont and a MA and Ph.D. from Kansas State University. She is the author of: The Harp and the Eagle: Irish-American Volunteers and the Union Army, 1861-1865. Expected next year is a study of the Texas Brigade. She specializes in nineteenth-century America, with an emphasis on the socio-military experiences of Civil War soldiers and their families.

Joan Waugh – University of California, Los Angeles

Joan Waugh, Professor of History teaches and writes about the U.S. Civil War, Reconstruction and Gilded Age eras. Her first book, Unsentimental Reformer: The Life of Josephine Shaw Lowell is a biography of an important social welfare figure in 1880s New York City. She has coauthored, with Alice Fahs, The Memory of the Civil War in American Culture and co-authored, with Gary Gallagher, Wars within a War: Controversy and Conflict Over the American Civil War. Her most recent book is U.S. Grant: American Hero, American Myth.